Dear John:

What a nice surprise to receive your letter and the most interesting book of which you are the author!

One thing I have never even wildly considered doing was to write a book. You clearly have a wide range of interests and capabilities. I am sure it was a labor of love to put together such a fascinating treatise about one of your ancestors.

We all appreciate your long and meaningful contributions to Pfizer's success. It is our ability to attract people of your qualifications that has made us successful.

Sincerely,
